Protecting Yourself From Top Threats in 2017

By: Charles Johnson
SE Manger - US West, Alert Logic

Charles Johnson is an 18 year IT veteran wholly focused on ensuring organizations large and small are enabled to protect their data and infrastructure from malicious activity. Charles began his career in InfoSec securing communications for the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Joint Communications in the United States Navy. Prior to joining Alert Logic, Charles spent 4 years working as a consulting engineer and solutions architect helping organizations measure and address risk and operationalize investments in information systems security resources.

In 2016 attackers raised the stakes and became more organized in the effort to monetize pirated systems and proliferate data. We'll cover the trends and some of the new interesting exploits while providing strategies on how to best defend against what may come in 2017. Whether you're an individual hoping for more privacy or a business owner looking to stay out of the headlines, you'll be better equipped to guard your data and information systems after this presentation.

Space is limited. Please RSVP as soon as possible.
