Security Information and Event Managemet (SIEM)
By: Matthew Schuler

Cybersecurity Specialist, Matthew Schuler from IBM Security, provides security products and professional services to help organizations detect, address and prevent security breaches.

Matt will be discussing the security information and event management (SIEM) market. His focus will be on the enterprise benefits of SIEM technology and the basics of SIEM products as well as how the technology can help aid in threat detection, incident response, and in some cases, forensic analysis. He will also present about how to determine which SIEM solutions are best for your organization.

Space is limited. Please RSVP as soon as possible.
